Strength of character, not Consists in

1. Refusal to change
2. Not in persisting in
   - a mistaken opinion
   - an unjust course toward a friend
   - in estrangement from relatives.
3. Obstinacy is confounded with strength, but is weakness.

Copy of letter from David V.° Col to Arthur Robinson, Esq.° 1863

Dear Arthur I rec.d yr kind letter a little more than a
mo. ago; it was a Sat.y Mg,
I was up at ye Mrs Ray's &
a.d to John in jake, Johnathe Str is in; and in a few minits more the dec Ray sent for J. & myself & told us that the Str was in; so down we came to rec.e Fa. & no who had been away so long; that my Father gave both yr & yr bro.r letters. I thank you very much for the book and likeness of yourself & yr Brother

I am finish reading your book. I am reading chapter fourteen book two. Very Exciting and two. I stop at the end of this book.

Next week on last was the Christmas indepence and we had a weeks' holidays. on the 19th we went out to see the Sold with papa and mamma. They did not tell us this year any surprise. Last week was Columbus birth day; I was 11 yrs old.

It was rather a misty day and soon perhaps we what am I going to say because here was born during an Eyptian Mummy is going to take Grand to see this relic, & auntie is going south with a friend on the 22nd. Mr Cameron is Sch. now; and 5 teachers that teach all day, and 2 that come for an hour or two.
Hope you are all well
at your home, remain
Yours truly
Walter.
Father for me to write kind love & tell him I will write soon
Love to all
Yours affectionately

John notified Telephone Co that instrument in his office was no longer needed. He wanted an instrument in his house at Viña. Regular price there is $200 Price of that here $160

Total $360.

John asked to leave the one already here, to place one in Viña & offered $225 for both in view of the use of our grounds for their wire. They named $250 as the price for both services because of our lien on them & this was accepted -

Death of Mrs. A. W. Clark.

We are pained to announce the death of Mrs. A. W. Clark which occurred in New York yesterday. She has been a good deal of an invalid for a number of years, and went to New York, we believe, for treatment. She was a woman of uncommon intelligenceand worth. Her husband and family have the warmest sympathies of their friends in their great affliction. She was the daughter of Doct. Thomas of Oswego county, whose death was andounced in the TIMES a few days since.

DIED.

CLARK—In New York city, Sunday morning, April 24, Eliza Thomas, wife of Hon. A. W. Clark, and daughter of the late Dr. D. V. Thomas, of New Jersey, aged 53 years.

TELEGRAMA DE LOS ANDES.

18 de noviembre.

Anteayer salieron para Buenos Aires los señores Domingo Toro Herrera y J. J. Beláustegui. Anoche deben haber pasado la cordillera a pié, aprovechando la dureza de la nieve a esa hora.

Ayer llegó el correo arjentino con nueve dias desde Mendoza. Dice que vienen tres arreos en camino y que hoi debe llegar uno a Las Cuevas.

En el llano de la Calavera y la cumbre queda como un metro de nieve. En este trayecto no pueden todavía pasar animales cargados; es mui peligroso.

Las balijas y equipajes de viajeros son pasados a hombros.

Por este lado la subida a la cumbre se hace por la quebrada del Salto, bajando a Las Cuevas por el Bermejo. La subida de los Caracoles y la bajada de la Iglesia están llenas de nieve.

Diariamente están pasando la cordillera a pié pasajeros de ambos lados sin mayor dificultad.

Los arreos que vienen en camino atropellarán la nieve, dejando mas espedito el camino en unos ocho dias mas.

Se cree que hasta fines de diciembre no quedará completamente despejada la cordillera.

Abundante agua arrastan los rios Blanco y Colorado, que forman el corrientoso Aconcagua.

Today embarked Alex. Bell, hard case, S.S. "G. of Mexico" for L'pl £15. BBS. pd. Wm Mc Queen arranged passage; Jas. Blake provided clothing as per list above. I told Bell drink was his ruin - he blubbered "Yes it is so" but that in other things he was a good man. Had to tell him he was not good, but untrue, saying things he did not mean - not meaning to be good - no intention + begging him to seek a new heart. Told Scotland he will be better off than kicking at home. 9 to 4.30 news came by wire of Julia Rodriguez' death - what to do for or with her daughter Rosa I don't know - Wrote her + sent her an order on Lecaque for $10.

I said I'd pay the expenses of her interment

THE LATE

PROF. A. A. HODGE,

D.D. LL.D.

"GOD must surely have had some wonderful work for him to do yonder, in cutting short the great work he was doing here." So said a life-long friend of Dr. ARCHIBALD ALEXANDER HODGE, in the bewilderment of sorrow on hearing of his unexpected death. It is a sentiment which has found an echo in many hearts. The Church of God on earth has been made distinctly poorer by the recent summons to this eminent servant of Christ to "come up higher." We could ill afford, it would seem, to spare him. But God reigns, and He doeth all things well. What we know not now, we shall know hereafter. The Christian heart is often called to exercise the faith that is willing to wait.

The younger Hodge held a place all his own in the esteem and affection of the Church. It has sometimes been found that a distinguished paternity is more of a burden than an advantage, in the race of life. But the subject of our sketch had an individuality that could not be dwarfed by comparison with even so great a father as Dr. Charles Hodge. In some departments, indeed, he did not so much as come into competition with him. Even had he lived as long, he would never, for instance, have become as voluminous an author; for he was constitutionally averse to "the drudgery of writing." The editorial tact and patience which carried The Princeton Review, "ball and chain," for fifty years, and made a success of it all the time, were quite beyond him. Nor would he ever have grown into the ecclesiastical statesman his father was; for the guidance of church polity and the settlement of cases did not lie much in his way.

On the other hand, he could travel where his father might admire but could not follow. The great qualities of the latter as a theological thinker were inherited at their best by his eldest born—his intuitive insight, his analytic power, his logical force, his comprehensiveness of vision with respect to the relations of truth, his absolute intellectual honesty. On the emotional side of his nature, too, when the upper crust was beaming in the luminousness of some poetic fancy. Dr. Paxton, at his funeral, referred to this "transcendent something" in the younger Hodge, which those who really knew him—not the readers of his books, but his personal intimates, and his students—could not possibly fail to recognise.

sense, they had each, at the same time, his own way of viewing truth, and his own method of presenting it. By the time the writer knew them—father and son—the younger Hodge was beyond question the more impressive teacher of the two; but comparison at that stage would have been palpably unfair to the beloved veteran, the Nestor of Princeton, and of the Church. None rejoiced more than he in his colleague's acceptability, and in the pledge which that opening session gave of continued prosperity

Archibald Alexander Hodge was born in Princeton, New Jersey, in 1823. His father, Dr. Charles Hodge, had been associated, in the preceding year, with his revered former teacher, Dr. Archibald Alexander, as Professor of Oriental and Biblical Literature in Princeton Seminary, and after him he named his firstborn son. The boy's mother was Sarah Bache, the great granddaughter of Benjamin Franklin; a young lady of unusual beauty both of person and of character. He had the untold advantage, in early years, of nurture in a genuinely pious home. As is often in such circumstances the case, he never could recall the time when he first came under religious impressions, though he did not by his own act "join the Church" till 1842.

In his father's house he was brought into contact with some of the brightest intellects of the time. His own development is said to have been slow; yet he graduated in Arts in 1841, and showed such aptitude for mathematics and natural science that he remained for some time in the capacity of tutor by the side of the famous Professor Henry, of Princeton College. In 1843 he definitely entered on the study of theology in Princeton Seminary, from which he graduated in 1847.

To the joy of his father—whose influence did more than the world knows for the heathen abroad—"Archie" gave himself promptly and decisively to the foreign field. The Mission Board thankfully accepted him, and in the autumn he sailed with his young wife for India.

Saturday -

At 4 A.M. John came for horse to go to Placers Hill. Child, Mrs Jackson chd; at same hour Annie needed him - prescribe came back at 7. I took express to Limache, he Dr Cooper for Viña; at Station Sinclair asked him to see Mrs Murray - Mrs Jackson's sister offering to send him to Viña by special engine so as to return at 9.30. Jack consented - I found Rosa Blair ready, her uncle Francisco Rodriguez + wife Maria ready + glad that we wd take her - "had their own children + could hardly afford". It seems she has several aunts + uncles in San Felipe who came to her mother during her illness + helped take care of her, but were not pleased at her refusal to confess. An uncle + aunt were in the room the Friday that Saviour died + went out. When I offered prayer the Tia left the room. After the death & burial on Saturday pm. the Tias began to pack up the things to carry away to S. Felipe & threw Rosa's clothes around ad lib., learning this her uncle threatened to send them "presos", forbidding them to take an article.

Before the starting of the train called to see Xto Wiesing who said what he desired from Jesus was a new heart. I had read blind Bartimeus & asked if Jesus come now wd he ack him for sight & wh. he ans'd:- "No." I said "what for then?" & he said "To be good to have a new heart." I explained that sight was a metaphor for spiritual help. It was curious to see how elementary his conceptions were, but his answers showed sincerity & a good conception of what salvation is. I prayed w him - he pressed my hand - His mother asked me to stay to breakfast but I hastened to be in time for the train.

The Tia Maria went w us to station - a friend brought a large quantity of flowers & said goodbye to Rosa - Met Sarah Smith coming in to see her sister Anna who was ailing; expecting Wm Edwards, Doña Juana, from Utgo & therefore declining my protection gratefully.

After entering the train I missed my wallet cont'g a few dollars & two tickets & a boleto luggage - could not find it anywhere - Conductor let me off & baggage master gave it up.

John reports that Wm Treleaven is very ill - Jackson child better - I felt very weary before dinner but a little rest & a glass of ale set me up.

At 7 Fraser came saying Mrs F. was very ill sinking they thought, & poor John was summoned back again having just sat down to dinner.

Annie has slept this afternoon & is by Jack & Hattie reported to be very much better - wh. is an immense relief.

THE ANDOVER DECISION.

After many weeks of delay, the Andover Visitors have rendered their decision in the case of the Andover professors arraigned for heresy. The decision convicts Prof. Smyth "of maintaining and inculcating beliefs inconsistent with and repugnant to the creed of the institution" upon the following points, namely: "That the Bible is not 'the only perfect rule of faith and practice,' but is fallible and untrustworthy even in some of its religious teachings; that no man has power or capacity to repent without knowledge of God in Christ; that there is and will be probation after death for all men who do not decisively reject Christ during the earthly life." The Visitors, therefore, adjudge the decree that Prof. Smyth be removed from the office of Brown Professor of Ecclesiastical History, and his office is declared vacant.
